

When we're caught in fear, complaint and attention to 'fixing' what we think is broken we leave no space for vision. Vision demands a unified experience derived from love, in the spiritual felt experience of 'we are each other'. Vision commands stewardship, knowing we are our grand children, our great grand children, and beyond. Vision holds no blame, but looks at what is and asks, "Is it working?" "Will it still be working many years from now?" Vision values natural resources, our youth on top of the list. Vision rearranges our federal budget from a sense of sustainability and stewardship, not fear, greed and anger. I vote for vision and collaboration with aim to best for all and harm to none.
